Q&A

Q At what point in my skincare routine should I use Line Lifter for the best results?

A) If you are just using Line Lifter, use it after cleansing and after all excess water is dried off. If you are using it with Absolute Skincare, use Lifter after Toner > Ampoule > Eye Cream once the products are fully absorbed. However, Line Lifter must be used after eye cream and before moisturizing cream.

Q Can I take the product off and put it back on?

A) The Line Lifter's needles may become damaged when you take the product off. Please make sure you apply the patches over the desired area from the very beginning.

Q How long can I use the product once the individual pouches are opened?

A) Once the pouch is opened, you must use the product immediately. The microarrays on the Line Lifter are made of hyaluronic acid, and the effective ingredients cannot be delivered to the skin effectively once they make contact with the air.

Q Will it damage the skin?

A) There is no damage. Line Lifter is the first MFDS certified functional cosmetic product using microarrays, and the product's effects and safety were verified through clinical testing.

Q Does it hurt?

A) The microarrays stimulate the skin when the patches are applied, and this may feel like little pricks, but this sensation is an optimal pain that was verified through multiple rounds of clinical testing. If you feel a prickling sensation, it means the patch's effective ingredients are being absorbed by your skin.

Q Will the area of application turn red?

A) Right after you apply the patches, the microarrays will stimulate the skin and this may cause redness. This is just a temporary reaction that appears while promoting the absorption of cosmetic ingredients, but the redness will subside after 2 hours and you will experience visible wrinkle improvement.

Q Can I use it every day?

A) Yes, you can. Clinical tests on Line Lifter showed wrinkle improvement effects when used once every other day. The recommended period of use is once every other day, but you will see even faster wrinkle improvement results if you use it every day.
